BACHELORS PAY SOCIAL OBLIGATIONS WITH DANCES AND PARTIES AT THE OPERA

THAT essential member of society's cast, the bachelor, is this month discharging with interest some of his social debts, and as a result society is being treated to some of the best parties of the winter.

One dinner and dance is much like another, hostesses and settings to the contrary notwithstanding. The inner man and woman must be sustained, but with a regimen curtailed by Federal enactment.

The hours of the night not humanly necessary for relaxation are restricted in number and convention. Rarely is the routine of a night varied, but so buoyant is human nature, particularly debutante nature, that repetition never pall and frequent meetings of the same circle only serve to solidify friendships. That is the excellent philosophy of modern society.

But in a little change there is much hope. When a bachelor sends out his cards for a party in his home he gives fresh zest to familiar things. There is opened up a new vista of possibilities that broadens the social perspective, stimulates the debutante into anticipations of new experiences and makes parents thankful that men, even if unattached, are willing to assume some responsibilities as coproviders in the school of social experience.

This is why Messrs. Lawrence-Copley Thaw and Owen Mason stepped into the social foreground last Wednesday night, when they gave a dinner and dance in their apartment at 270 Park avenue under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Prindell. Their guests numbered more than one hundred and included a large group of the debutantes and the best dancers among the young men.

Chapters of Social History.

The memory of society goes back willingly to the time, only a few years ago, when Mr. Lloyd Warren would gather his friends about him in his Fifth avenue home. Similarly Mr. Robert Walton Goetz has written some interesting chapters into social history. Mr. Goetz is one of the few unattached men of New York society who may play the host in the most restricted of modish surroundings—a pattern box in the Metropolitan Opera House. Soon will Mr. Goetz be removed from the unattached class, but in that narrow circle remain Mr. Charles E. Messers, who is the modern counterpart of the old-time host, and Mr. Charles E. Messers, who is the modern counterpart of the old-time host, and Mr. Charles E. Messers, who is the modern counterpart of the old-time host.

Richard Peters, Horace Chase Stephens, Hamilton Fish, Jr., William Rhinelandier Stewart, Jr., Percy R. Fyne 2d, Frederick S. Allen, Frank Crowninshield and Alfonso de Navarro form a unique group of unattached men of New York society. They are the modern counterparts of the late lamented Patriarchs as a social force, but they may claim a place even higher in public social esteem than that held by the Patriarchs, because they are demagogic bachelors. The Patriarchs were studiously self-centered.

Form Charitable Board.

This group of eight unattached men, who call themselves The Bachelors, have, while contributing in a very prominent manner to the social meritment of several winter seasons, formed a charitable board through which has been distributed to home and foreign charities a large sum of money. During the early weeks of the winter they organized a series of four dances which earned, through subscriptions to them, more than $72,000 for home charity. Last Friday night they opened a second series of five dances in the Vanderbilt Hotel for the same purpose, with the result that by the time the social season of 1920-1921 shall have come to an end they will have sent into local charitable treasuries a sum approaching $200,000.

While their dances are given by subscription all may not subscribe. At the bottom of the card of invitation to each dance is printed in bold type the following legend: "This invitation is not transferable." A subscription of $30 includes the card of invitation to each dance. There are family subscriptions at $50. Separate guest tickets are $10 each, and even the guest cards are not transferable.

Bachelors to Entertain.

All hosts at this period of the year are not unattached men, however. Bachelors among members of the Automobile Club of America are conspiring

Senior Dances to Be Held Again

NOW that debutantes have been so well entertained by way of dances, some of their older friends have decided to have a series that will include among the subscribers girls who have been out for several seasons and some of the young married persons. These dances, known as the Senior Dances, were revived last year with much success, after having been discontinued because of the war. Originally they were held at Sherry's and last year in the Plaza ballroom, where they will be held this season, on the nights of January 21, February 25 and April 3.

Mrs. J. Horton James is directing them. Among the subscribers are Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden H. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Brett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ellis Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ballantine, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. John Farr, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. André Gross, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Lazo, Mr. and Mrs. Danforth Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Herman S. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Looman, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. William V. C. Ruxton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Norrish Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin S. Richardson, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Pardee, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Wyeth and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caesar. They will be informal dances and a buffet supper will be served.

There will be two private dances this week, both of them on Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. de Forest will have one for their daughter, Miss Julia Mary de Forest, at the Colony Club, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher will give a dance at 640 Park avenue, near their home, for their daughter, Miss Jean Fletcher, and some of her young friends. Miss Fletcher was formally introduced to society in September, 1919, when her parents gave a ball at the Willows, their country place in Glen Cove. At that time all the neighboring country places were open and the grounds were brilliantly illuminated and supper was served out of doors.

Arrangements have been completed for the marriage of Miss Margaret Roscoe Warren, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliot Warren, to Mr. Shannon Lord Meany, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Meany of Convent, N. J., which will take place next Saturday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church. There will be a reception in the ballroom of the Colony Club. Miss Warren is a granddaughter of the late George William Warren, for many years organist of St. Thomas's.

She will have for her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Herman S. Murray. Her other attendants will be Mrs. O. L. Schenck, Mrs. E. H. Kiesel, Mrs. H. Russell Evans Tucker, Jr., Mrs. Stanhope Nixon, Mrs. Andrea Gelsner Celesta di Vogliasso, Mrs. J. Horton James, Miss Marion Tiffany, Miss Louise Dixon and Miss Gertrude Davies. The marriage will be witnessed by a small gathering of relatives and friends, and will be followed by a reception in the ballroom of the Gotham. Miss Gaynor's only bridal attendant will be her sister, Mrs. Whitney Kernochan, Rufus Gaynor and the bridegroom's young brother, Joseph C. Bennett.

The artists at Mr. Bagby's musical party at the Waldorf-Astoria will be Mrs. Margaret Matzenauer and Benjamin Gull of the Metropolitan opera, and Ignaz Friedman.

TOSCANINI ORCHESTRA FOR CHARITY TONIGHT

Music lovers are to have another opportunity of hearing Arturo Toscanini's La Scala Orchestra in concert to-night in the Hippodrome for the benefit of the Society for Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis. The programme, which is to be opened at 8:15 o'clock, is to include some musical novelties which have not been heard at previous appearances of the orchestra. Boxes and tickets may be obtained at the St. Regis.

The Society for Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis is affiliated with the New York Board of Health and the Association of Tuberculosis Clinics, and statistics have proved that in social settings, cleanliness and proper exercise have stemmed the tide of the scourge, particularly among persons too poor or too ignorant to overcome a tendency to disease. One of the society's chief activities is a Preventive Day Nursery where children of tubercular parents are treated and cared for. Through home instruction in dietetics, cleanliness and proper exercise other patients are taught how to care properly for themselves.

Boxes have been reserved by Mrs. Burden, Miss Twombly, Mrs. Straight, Mrs. Elias, Mrs. John T. Pratt, Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, Mrs. Walter H. James, Mrs. Elbert H. Amateurs Rehearse Play for Hospital

Entertainment Is Under the Direction of Miss Grace
R. Henry.

Just before Miss Grace R. Henry, one of the best known of amateur dramatic producers, took up rehearsals of Anatole France's "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," to be given in the Plaza ballroom on the nights of January 25 and 26 by members of the Junior Auxiliary of St. Luke's Hospital Social Service, she had completed a tour as producing expert of several Western cities in the interest of the junior leagues of cities other than New York.

Since the young women of New York society formed the junior league some twenty years ago a similar system of cooperative charitable work among the younger members of leading families has been adopted in several of the larger cities. The constitution and manner of work of the other leagues have been based upon the experience of the original league in New York. The junior leagues of Kansas City and Buffalo are flourishing organizations, and to these cities Miss Henry went to help in producing the New York league's successful musical and dancing production of last year, "Musical Milestones."

With the Anatole France play as her basis, Miss Henry now is rehearsing, in addition to the play itself, several interpolated musical and dancing numbers. The interpolated dances are to be given by the best of the dancers among the debutantes of this and last year, including Miss Geraldine McAlpin, Virginia de Haven, Margaret Reick, Marie Lamarche, Ethel Potter, Carolyn W. Ferriday, Elizabeth Hyde, Helen Hagen, Mary Lincoln, Margaret O. Flint, Eleanor Bates Coward and Betsy Flagg. The orchestra will be from the Music School Settlement. Tickets of admission may be obtained from Miss Eleanor Cromwell, at 711 Park avenue. The boxes are being sold by Mrs. R. Grosvenor Hutchins, Mr. E. Hyde, Mr. M. P. Longman, Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. John S. Sheppard and Mrs. William Willis Hesse.

FRIENDLY SOCIETY'S DRIVE.

The Girls' Friendly Society has started a drive for 1,000 new members, whose dues at $10 a year each will help materially to meet with an increased stated income, the rapidly expanding activities of the organization. There are about 6,000 members in the society of New York now, with eighty-seven branches in twenty-eight towns. The society hopes to have branches in forty-eight towns before the year is over. Each branch is a club unit, meeting for friendship, work, recreation, education, social service and helpfulness to others.

This year the society is particularly interested in work toward the enlargement of the lodge at 135 East Fifty-fourth street. It is more than a mere boarding house. It is a home, with a house mother to plan and help. Since 1910 the lodge has sheltered more than 1,000 girls, but it is only possible to take care of forty-two girls at a time. The society is anxious to sell it and buy a house which will care for 100 and where it will be possible to provide meals for the girls of the community as well. At present the girls pay from $7.50 to $9.50 a week for room and breakfast and dinner. The new lodge will cost $100,000, and the society is anxious to have it by spring.

The Girls' Friendly Society has a vacation house at Huntington, N. Y., open from May until October, which provides a place for fifty girls at a time to have all the joys of a summer outing at reasonable rates, from $7 to $8.50 a week. Its sphere of usefulness would be doubled if it had a furnace, so that it might be used all the year round.

The headquarters of the society, at 147 East Thirty-fourth street, are not large enough to allow all of the activities for girls which are desired, and a larger set of rooms or a house are desired for the society. The society is open on all holidays for some specified form of entertainment and many nights as well. There is a weekly luncheon on Wednesdays, and the society is open every second week, and it is open several nights of the week, so that girls may come in, cook their own supper, freshen up and have their friends meet them or rest and write and read.

CONCERT FOR MUSIC SCHOOL.

For the benefit of the Music School of the East Side House a concert will be given on the afternoon of January 31 at the Plaza. Rafaela Diaz, Ernest Hitecheon and Mr. and Mrs. David Mannes will appear. Tickets, $5 each, and boxes, $50 each, may be obtained from Mrs. P. S. Smithers, 470 Park avenue.
